

Fraser Nicol

J Fraser Nicol (d 1989) was a British parapsychologist who carried out statistical experiments in ESP and psychokinesis, often in collaboration with his wife Betty Humphrey.

Life and Career

John Fraser Nicol, a Scot, was educated at Heriot-Watt College, Edinburgh, and the University of Edinburgh. For most of his professional career he was a full-time parapsychological researcher in Britain and the USA. He married Betty Humphrey, a psychologist and fellow researcher, in 1955.^[1] He died in 1989.

Psychical Research

Nicol joined the Society for Psychical Research (SPR) in 1934 and became a council member in 1948. In 1951 he started a year-long visit to the Parapsychology Laboratory at Duke University, and subsequently won research grants from the American Society for Psychical Research (ASPR), the Parapsychology Foundation and the Rockefeller Foundation.

At the SPR he became involved with statistical psi experiments using cards and dice,^[2] collaborating with Whately Carington; however, these achieved only marginal significance. He continued dice experiments with JB Rhine at Duke, collaborating with Humphrey, but became disillusioned with what he considered inadequate methodological rigour in Rhine's dice experiments, and the resulting friction led to his and Humphrey's departure.

Nicol was then invited to join the research team at the American Society for Psychical Research, where he continued experiments and compiled an in-depth index to its publications.^[3] His extensive experimental work included tests in precognition,^[4] aspects of randomness and success in ESP,^[5] and the search for correlations between psi performance and psychological variables,^[6] one of which found a striking link with self-confidence and was assessed by a reviewer as one of the most 'ambitious' experiments of its kind to have been conducted until that time.^[7]

However, Nicol became increasingly sceptical about the ability of quantitative experiments to provide convincing proof of psi, and often expressed dissatisfaction with the methods followed by parapsychologists in this regard.^[8]

In other activities, Nicol explored mediumship and spiritualism^[9] and wrote about the history of psychical research.^[10] His essay review of Alan Gauld's The Founders of Psychical Research was published in the SPR proceedings.^[11]

Trevor Hall

Trevor Hall, an author and sceptic of paranormal phenomena, aroused controversy with books claiming to expose fraudulence and gullibility in key episodes of psychical research. Nicol was one of the most vocal of Hall's many critics. Of Hall's book on Edmund Gurney,^[12] he wrote in the International Journal of Parapsychology,

It is difficult to recall any other book on psychical research that contains within its covers such a multiplicity of multiform errors ... [It] is a small monument to lack of knowledge, inadequate preparation, confused thinking, unfairness, and worse. For it is little more than an outpouring of propaganda against persons, long dead, whom the author chooses in his singular way to dislike.^[13]

Hall issued a writ for libel against the journal's publisher, the Parapsychology Foundation, which in an eventual out-of-court settlement agreed to publish Hall's rebuttal of Nicol's criticisms,^[14] but refused to give Nicol the right to reply to which Nicol considered he was entitled. As a consequence, Nicol resigned from his research post at the Foundation.^[15]

Works

Articles

Some experiments in willful die-throwing (1947, with Whately Carington). Proceedings of the Society for Psychical Research 48, 164-75.

A significant book test (1948). Journal of the Society for Psychical Research 34, 248-49.

The Fox sisters and the development of Spiritualism (1948). Journal of the Society for Psychical Research 34, 271-86.

An appreciation of Whately Carington (1948). Journal of Parapsychology 12/3.

The exploration of ESP and human personality (1953, with B. Humphrey). Journal of the American Society for Psychical Research 47/4, 133-78.

The design of experiments in psychokinesis (1954). Journal of the Society for Psychical Research 37, 355-57.

Randomness: The background and some new investigations (1955). Journal of the Society for Psychical Research 38, 71-87.

Correspondence: Reply to Wing Commander Young (1955). Journal of the Society for Psychical Research 38, 139-42.

The feeling of success in ESP (1955, with B. Humphrey). Journal of the American Society for Psychical Research 49/1.

The repeatability problem in ESP-personality research (1955, with B. Humphrey). Journal of the American Society for Psychical Research 49/4.

Eusapia Palladino in retrospect (1956). Journal of the American Society for Psychical Research 50, 27-33.

The statistical controversy in quantitative research (1959). International Journal of Parapsychology 1/1, 47-63.

Apparent spontaneous precognition (1961). International Journal of Parapsychology 3/2, 26-45.

C.D. Broad on psychical research (1964). International Journal of Parapsychology 6/3, 261-88.

Obituary: Professor Hornell Hart (1967). Journal of the Society for Psychical Research 44, 165-66.

The silences of Mr Trevor Hall (1966). International Journal of Parapsychology 8, 5-59.

The founders of the SPR (1972). Proceedings of the Society for Psychical Research 55, 341-67.

Fraudulent children in psychical research (1979). Parapsychological Review 10/1, 16-21.

Book Chapters

Parapsychology and physical systems: Historical background (1977). In Handbook of Parapsychology, ed. B.B. Wolman, 305-24. New York: Van Nostrand Reinhold Company.

Philosophers as psychic investigators (1977). In The Philosophy of Parapsychology, ed. by B. Shapin and L. Coly, 145-68. New York: Parapsychology Foundation.

History of psychical research: Britain (1982). In Psychical Research – A Guide to its History, Principles and Practices, ed. by I. Grattan-Guinness, 17-39. Wellingborough: Aquarian Press.

Book Reviews

The Cheltenham Ghost by B. Abdy Collins (1949). Journal of the Society for Psychical Research 35, 85-86.

Melvyn Willin

Literature

Alvarado, C. (1990). Obituary: J. Fraser Nicol: Journal of the Society for Psychical Research 56, 318-19.

Gilbert, M. (1990). Obituary: J. Fraser Nicol: An appreciation of his dedication to psychical research Journal of the Society for Psychical Research 56, 113-24.

Grattan-Guinness, I. (1982). History of psychical research: Britain by J. Fraser Nicol. In Psychical Research – A Guide to its History, Principles and Practices, ed. by I. Grattan-Guinness, 17-39. Wellingborough: Aquarian Press.

Hall, T.H. (1964). The Strange Case of Edmund Gurney. London: Duckworth.

Hall, T.H. (1968). Some comments on Mr. Fraser Nicol's review. International Journal of Parapsychology 10/2, 149-64.

Nicol, J. F. (1947, with Whately Carington). Some experiments in willed die-throwing Proceedings of the Society for Psychical Research 48, 164-75.

Nicol, J. F. (1948). The Fox sisters and the development of Spiritualism. Journal of the Society for Psychical Research 34, 271-86.

Nicol, J. F. (1953, with B. Humphrey). The exploration of ESP and human personality. Journal of the American Society for Psychical Research 47/4, 133-78.

Nicol, J. F. (1955i). Randomness: The background and some new investigations. Journal of the Society for Psychical Research 38, 71-87.

Nicol, J. F. (1955ii, with B. Humphrey). The feeling of success in ESP. Journal of the American Society for Psychical Research 49/1.

Nicol, J. F. (1961). Apparent spontaneous precognition. International Journal of Parapsychology 3/2, 26-45.

Nicol, J. F. (1966). The silences of Mr Trevor Hall. International Journal of Parapsychology 8, 5-59.

Nicol, J. F. (1972). The founders of the SPR. Proceedings of the Society for Psychical Research 55, 341-67.

Pleasants, H. (1964). Biographical Dictionary of Parapsychology with Directory and Glossary 1946-1996. NY: Garrett Publication

Soal, S.G. (1954). Review: The exploration of ESP and human personality, by J. Fraser Nicol and B.M. Humphrey. Journal of the Society for Psychical Research 37, 307-10.

References

Footnotes

- 1.^ Pleasants (1964).
- 2.^ Gilbert (1990), 115.
- 3.^ Gilbert (1990), 118.
- 4.^ For instance, Nicol (1947; 1961).
- 5.^ For instance, Nicol (1955i) and Nicol and Humphrey (1955ii).
- 6.^ E.g., Nicol and Humphrey (1953).
- 7.^ Soal (1954), 3078.
- 8.^ Gilbert (1990), 114.
- 9.^ For instance, Nicol (1948).
- 10.^ For instance, in Grattan-Guinness (1982), 17-39.
- 11.^ Nicol (1972), 341-67.
- 12.^ Hall (1964).
- 13.^ Nicol (1966), 56.
- 14.^ Hall (1968), 149-64.
- 15.^ Gilbert (1990), 120-22.